

Security Challenges in the Global Order- an Interdisciplinary Approach

Global Order Project Freiburg

The Global Order Project is a student-led initiative at the University College Freiburg that creates a platform for exchange between students and experts. Tackling problems that are associated with the complex interplay of actors that is the Global Order requires an interdisciplinary conversation. We aim to foster it by organizing conferences, lecture series, and other events. Over the last years, we explored topics such as Populism, Migration, and Global Justice.

The 3rd Global Order Conference

This conference will focus on concepts relevant to security in the Global Order combining perspectives from different disciplines. As the scope of security expands to fields outside the traditional definition, we believe it is necessary to create a more comprehensive discourse. In analogy to the four majors in the Liberal Arts and Sciences Degree at the UCF, the conference will feature four tracks.

Organization and Structure

The conference will be centered around professional input from our expert and student-led workshops. For the conference we want to emphasize the active engagement of the students with the problems at hand. Participants will be able to sign up for two tracks prior to the conference and further information on the sign up will follow. We encourage the participants to work in groups outside of their usual focus of studies in order to guarantee a truly interdisciplinary approach. The results of the groups will be shared with the plenum at the end of the conference. The working language of the conference is English to ensure accessibility for German as well as international students and experts. Supplementing these workshops will be other academic forums, as well as ample opportunity to socialise and explore Freiburg.
